Duped Daters Should Go Google Before Going Gaga Says E-dating Expert

Ottawa, ON – “E-daters can do their own background checks for free in less than an hour. Legislating dating sites to use disclaimers and background checks to protect members won’t work”, says Stephany Crowley, founder of e-datingExperts.com.

While Michigan lawmakers attempt to prevent fraud through online dating sites, e-dating Experts warn the only way to be protected, is to protect yourself.

Ms. Crowley speaks from personal experience having dealt with a stalker and subsequently checking out her own online suitors. Now she reveals the secrets to finding out if people are who they say they are in her new book e-dating Secrets™ - How to Surf for Your Perfect Love Match on the Internet. After researching thousands of sites and stories and consulting with corporate e-security and fraud experts, she insists protecting your self and your identity is a matter of asking the right questions, taking notes and surfing the right sources to verify information.

“Dating sites claiming to do background checks cannot truly protect members from fraud or identity theft. Even though everyone knows not to give out personal information, people do it anyway. Besides, fraudsters don’t play by the rules”, says Ms. Crowley.

E-datingExperts.com is not a dating site, it’s the first independent resource for online dating tips, advice, site reviews and personalized coaching. The site is designed to help people save time, energy, money and potential heartache while safely navigating the online dating world.

The e-dating Secrets series is available online at E-datingExperts.com and Amazon.com.
